Enter below, as a numbered list, brief and precise comments to justify your assessment.

1. We used a website called toggl.com to log our hours for this project. There is a great disparity between my logged hours and Greg's logged hours.
2. We used a website called github.com to track our code modifications for this project. There is a great disparity between the number of code commits I have completed and the number of commits Greg has completed.
3. I alone was responsible for every milestone report. This is evident in that all of them have my name at the top.
4. I alone was responsible for our project poster.
5. I alone was responsible for the final report for this project.
